MANY NOTABLES ON STEAMER; FINE TRIP

Makura Brings 50 Passengers to Honolulu; Australian Statesman Returning

Bringing 50 passengers for Honolulu from Victoria and Vancouver, of whom 24 are first-class, 22 second and four steerage, the Canadian-Australian steamer Makura, Capt. J. D. S. Phillips, docked at Pier 7 at 8 o'clock this morning, and steamed at noon for Suva, Auckland and Sydney.

Only a few packages of freight were brought by the Makura, and 84 bags of mail from Canada, the states and Europe, except the countries of the Teutonic allies.

Perfect weather was experienced on the voyage south, according to Captain Phillips and Purser W. McN. Smith. The Makura's through passenger list is fairly heavy, including 75 first-class, 30 second and 14 steerage.

Among the first-class passengers are C. W. Rattray of Dunedin, N. Z., a director of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand; C. J. Parr, a New Zealand member of parliament, and a party of 14 Australian politicians who are returning from Europe, where they attended the Imperial Conference last summer.

Among the passengers coming to Honolulu were a number of returning Honoluluans. These included Mrs. R. O. Matheson, wife of the managing editor of the Advertiser, and Master R. Matheson, also W. Matheson.

Prof. E. Putnam, a noted philologist, is stopping over in Honolulu. He was here three years ago on a tour around the world, and has always since been desirous of coming again for a longer stay. He has been living in Southern California, and will go from Honolulu to spend the winter season there.

Crew of Great Bear Had Food Of Rare Kinds

Skipper of Borden's Wrecked Vessel Says Champagne and Caviar Were Plentiful

Two cases of champagne for a deck, chocolates and caviar for entremets or what the sailorman calls "Time for coffee," an electric stove run from the launch dynamo, a choice of food at each meal that would make John Tait flush, and a few other fixings that one would find only in a big city were at the service of the shipwrecked crew of the Great Bear, says the San Francisco Examiner of September 26.

F. Murphy, engineer of the Great Bear, who arrived here several days ago, yesterday told at length of the fifteen days on St. Michael's Island, six miles from Pinnacle rock, where the Great Bear went ashore. He said:

"J. H. Borden is somewhere in the East now looking for a vessel to take the place of the Great Bear. The man is an ideal scientist because he is such a thorough sportsman. The weather is colder he gets, the colder he laughs.

"When we bumped Pinnacle rock at 1 o'clock on the morning of August 16, we all took to the boats and rowed some six miles to the island. Each boat made several trips. By nightfall we were well encamped with a shipwreck camp which such as no one ever heard of.

"The Great Bear's stores, such as could be quickly handled, were loaded into the boats. There was enough champagne in cases to make a perfectly good drink, caviar for shelter, an electric stove, which we worked from the launch dynamo until we got the wireless idea, and everything in the way of eat that could be found on Broadway, New York.

"Then came the wireless idea. We took out the launch's spark coil and fixed up a sending key with some scraps of brass. For an aerial we used the wire of the sounding machine and a couple of masts from the boats. This we installed at the top of the highest prominence of the island.

"Now I had no way of receiving. So all I could do was send out a constant S. O. S. with the position of the island. It would be romantic enough to say that the funny little wireless outfit brought rescue. But so far I have no record of anybody who picked up my call. The McCulloch found us after being notified from Nome that we were overdue.

"We were on the island for fifteen days. The very day that the revenue boat sighted us we were putting the finishing touches on the launch to make the 300-mile voyage to Nome. I was working on the engine at the time. A sailor helping me looked over my shoulder and saw the two masts of the McCulloch.

HARBOR NOTES

Monday the Standard Oil tanker Atlas left San Francisco for Honolulu with oil, gasoline and distillate.

The Matson steamer Hilonian, due Saturday from San Francisco, is expected to have three days' mail from the mainland.

At 10:30 last night the Matson steamer Lurline, from Honolulu at 4:20 p. m., September 26, arrived at San Francisco.

Coal to bunker the British steamer Keatrel may be taken to Panning Island soon by Judge H. E. Cooper's schooner-yacht Luka.

The inter-island is making repairs to cost $675, on the old quarantine launch Oahu. A new gasoline motor costing $1890 will be installed by Eben-Low.

Next mail for San Francisco will leave at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the U. S. army transport Logan, due from Manila and Nagasaki tomorrow morning.

A contract for removal of the 120-foot flagstaff on Quarantine Island, cutting off the dry-docked base, and erecting it, has been awarded to Harman Muller at $295.

Advices to the Merchants' Exchange say the T. K. K. steamer Persia, Maru left Yokohama October 2, two days late. This will bring her to Honolulu next Thursday, October 12.

Three steamers, all Japanese, will call here for bunkers from the inter-island. They are the Tokio Maru and Fukuoka Maru, from Balboa Monday, and the Unki Maru, from Chile Tuesday.

When the Hill liner Great Northern arrives at Honolulu on her first voyage of this season it is expected President L. C. Gilman of the company will be a passenger. General Traffic Manager Jackson, Cal Stone's successor, may come, too.

Free access to the U. S. army transport Logan will be permitted tomorrow when she docks at Pier 6, Dr. F. L. Trotter, chief quarantine officer, has announced. Quarantine measures are not necessary as the crew and all steerage passengers were given cholera examinations at Manila. No one was allowed ashore at Nagasaki, where the Asiatic cholera epidemic has been worst.

WILHELMINA OUT ON TIME; MANY SAIL ON HER

With the usual noisy and cheery crowd gathered on the pier to say goodby to the Matson steamer Wilhelmnia left Pier 15 at 10 o'clock this morning, on her way to San Francisco, taking 95 cabin and 23 steerage passengers from this port.

Many Honoluluans left on the liner for vacation and business trips to the mainland. The outgoing cabin list was comfortably large, although not so large as the summer months.

Miss Daisy Jerome, the Australian-American vaudeville artist, who closed her engagement at the Bijou last night, left with her mother. She is going to New York to enter American vaudeville and says she will later go into motion pictures in Los Angeles.

Jay Gould and family sailed. Saden with leis and saying they hope to come back next year. They were given a big send-off by their many friends here.

Captain Peter Johnson took the Wilhelmnia out with a full cargo, between 7000 and 8000 tons, weight and measurement. There were 3000 tons of sugar from Hilo and Honolulu and a big shipment of canned pineapples, well above 100,000 cases, the largest number taken out this season by any Matson steamer. Bananas to the amount of 3500 bunches, 500 tons of molasses, and miscellaneous freight.

LINER BEAR MAY BE AUCTIONED, IS REPORT

A succession of mishaps in connection with the attempts of Lloyd's, the British insurance underwriters, to salvage the steamer Bear, which went ashore near Eureka several months ago, will probably lead to the abandoning of the vessel and its sale at auction, according to James McFarlan of London, who was sent by Lloyd's to float the vessel, says the San Francisco Bulletin.

After the accident, the British salvage steamer Salvor stood by the Bear and attempted vainly to float it. When the Congress burned and went ashore at Coos Bay, the Salvor was ashore there.

Meanwhile, McFarlan had made arrangements to build a cofferdam around the Bear, in another effort to float the craft. While the Salvor was at Coos Bay the launch Magnolia, with a lighter bringing lumber for the cofferdam, arrived on the scene. The lumber was thrown overboard, one piece at a time, in the belief that it would float ashore.

Instead, a wind drove it out to sea and Lloyd's lost the entire consignment of lumber. Now McFarlan announces he is about ready to abandon the ship, after which she would be sold to the highest bidder.

The map of Kankarai over the Rumanian border contains some mysterious names, as the first Burchard bulletins have shown. A formidable one is Gyorgycentimik, which, on being challenged firmly, reduces itself merely to "George St. Michael," and may thus claim an affinity with our K. C. M. G. Another place, Fehevar, is nothing more or less than White City.—English Exchange.
